Ownership

Governance

Management of CMOs
What is a “Community”

COMMUNITY
A group of people living in the same place or having a particular characteristic in common

A particular area or place considered together with its inhabitants e.g. ‘a local community, Rural community’

A group of people living together and practicing common ownership e.g. “a community of nuns”

A body of nations or states unified by common interests e.g. ‘East African Community, the European Community’

Oxford dictionary
“community” includes a geographically founded community or any group of persons or sector of the public having a specific, ascertainable common interest.
Community media organization

Do you consider your organization as a CMO?

What is a community media organization?

Community media organization is any outfit that is working towards providing the disenfranchised individuals, groups and communities with access to information and communication through policy advocacy, infrastructure, technological support, training etc.
How are CMOs formed & Why?

Kindly share with us how and why you started your organization/group?

• Community media organizations/groups are born out of a need to address information and communication gap and desire to provide a medium that will facilitate access to information and community conversations.
Role of community members in the control and ownership of a CMO

What is the role of community members in your organizations, if any?

Community members are the primary target and the reason as to why the CMO was formed and as such they must take part in:

- Decision Making
- Content generation
- Production
Community Broadcasting

Principles recognized as pillars of community broadcasting

Community Ownership & Control

The COMMUNITY of INTEREST/GEOGRAPHIC

Kindly share the principles you know (plenary)
Organizational Structure

Write on card and share your OS

1. Promote transparency
2. Promotes accountability
3. Provides clarity on who should do what and when
4. Promote orderly management of the affairs of the organisation
5. Ensures that someone is responsible for performing specific tasks of the organisation
CMO Leadership

Who is a LEADER?

A person who has the ability to guide and lead. Such person must be trusted, respected in the community, reliable, willing to serve, willing to listen and make decisions.
Leadership……..

What are the types of leaders you now?

Authoritarian/dictator
Dominates and makes all decisions, performs all responsibilities and orders others around, makes rules alone and control group resources

Democratic leader
Guides the group in collective decision making, delegate responsibilities but also lead, encourages mutual respect for each other and encourages member’s participation

Laissez-Faire leader
Allows for complete freedom, not in control, does not make or enforce rules and hopes problems will just get away, does not care about the assets of the organisation and avoids making formal decisions

Which type of leader would you prefer and why?
Leadership

The apartheid laws ensured that the majority of citizens were disadvantaged and marginalized in the interest of the white minority.

This led to struggles engaged by progressive forces, which then led to the establishment of community radio as a tool for development by community groups from the historically disadvantaged majority.

Minority groups also saw community radio as a necessity for their communication and started joining the movement;

SA

The apartheid regime used the South African Broadcasting Corporation (SABC) as a monopoly that controlled the media industry.
Europe, Australia and North America cases

In some European, Australian and North American cases, minority groups (such as indigenous, immigrant, refugee or black communities) were marginalized by mainstream media and were therefore compelled to form and use community radio as a tool for highlighting their rights and raise issues concerning their interests.

In Latin America

Community radio became the voice of the poor and voiceless – Peoples Radio (landless peasants, urban shack dwellers, impoverished indigenous nations, trade unions, etc.) and also as a tool for development.
Conclusion

“Community broadcasting signifies a two-way process, which entails the exchange of views from various sources and is the adaptation of media for use by communities. In an ideal world community radio allows members of a community to gain access to information, education and entertainment. In it's purest sense, it is media in which the communities participate as planners, producers and performers and it is the means of expression of the community, rather than for the community” AMARC

Which of the stations you listed (earlier) qualify as a CR based on my presentation?
Community Broadcasting & Rural Empowerment

Let’s break RURAL, EMPOWERMENT

Wikipedia definition of RURAL

Rural areas are areas which are not towns or cities. They are often farming or agricultural areas...

Oxford dictionary

Empowerment is the process of becoming stronger and more confident, especially in controlling one's life and claiming one's rights.

My lay man definition of RURAL empowerment therefore is:
The process of enabling rural communities to become stronger and more confident, especially in controlling their lives and claiming their rights and which can be measured through their capacity to participate and address issues of public concern and their development.
Community Broadcasting & Rural Empowerment

World Bank defines rural development as;

‘A strategy designed to improve the economic and social life of a specific group of people - the rural poor. It involves extending the benefits of development to the poorest among those who seek a livelihood in the rural areas.

This therefore means;

• Empowering rural communities to take control of their own lives
  • Creating safe spaces for public debate and dialogues
  • Expression of aspirations and demands
    • Being knowledgeable
  • Decentralized people-centered development planning
    • Community participation
Radio has been cited over and over as the ideal medium for communication, especially in developing nations, because it transcends literacy and geographical barriers and its relative low cost in comparison to other technologies makes it most accessible to most people (Butner, 2003:12).
- Radio is the most effective means of reaching the rural communities

- Radio programmes created by communities attract high listenership

- Farm and development radio content is more effective when generated with and alongside the local communities

- Rural radio is a reliable agricultural extension tool

- Effective radio programming provides farmers with strategies for generating more income

- Sustained radio listenership is more effective than exposure to a specific campaign
